AHS rank and file called out

- Health minister's assistant directs frustration over wait times toward province's service-delivery staff
- Had held premier responsible in an earlier email

Alberta's struggle to fix a crisis in emergency room waits took an in-house turn Thursday when the No. 2 politician in the Health Department blamed the bureaucrats.

"We're not the people running the darn thing. That's AHS (Alberta Health Services). They need to be held accountable by us in government, by us in the legislature, by all Albertans," Raj Sherman, the parliamentary assistant to Health Minister Gene Zwozdesky, told reporters.

"They've got the biggest (budgetary) pay raise in history to deliver health care. They've been given the best staff in the nation and the hardest working staff in the nation."

Sherman, who is also an emergency room physician, made the comments after an email he wrote to government and hospital colleagues was leaked to the media.

In the email, Sherman said he offered to quit his post weeks ago in frustration over the decisions made by his government and by Alberta Health Services.

He singled out Premier Ed Stelmach for

Dire warning

- The issue of wait times has been a long-running issue in Alberta, but it came to the forefront a month ago, when a letter to the government from Dr. Paul Parks was leaked to the media.
- In the missive, Parks — the head of emergency care for the Alberta Medical Association — said the emergency rooms faced "potential catastrophic collapse."

not following through on a 2008 promise to take action on emergency overcrowding.

Sherman met behind closed doors with Stelmach for more than two hours Wednesday and said Thursday he will stay on as parliamentary assistant.

He also softened his comments on Stelmach.

"To be honest, the premier and the caucus have been listening. My frustration is probably more with the delivery side," he told reporters. THE CANADIAN PRESS

Calgary student Aaron Chatha says the province's new distracted driving legislation should apply to everyone, regardless of profession.

Have your say on off-leash parks

Dog owners can have their say when it comes to policies around off-leash parks, as the city has made plans available online.

The City of Calgary has posted the first draft of city-wide policies sur-

The public submissions regarding the 150 off-leash areas in the city will be considered for the second draft and presented to the Community and Protective Services committee in January.

Calgarians can submit their thoughts on the policies up until Dec. 8 at calgary.ca/offleash.

Woman fights for hubby's freedom

ANDY WONG/THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

► Karen Patterson with her husband's lawyer, Li Fangping, after attending the trial of her husband, artist Wu Yuren, Thursday at the Wenyuhe Court in Beijing.

► Jailed Chinese artist has taught contemporary Chinese art in Calgary

When she's not talking to lawyers and Western journalists, Karen Patterson is busy sending tweets and Facebook updates on the latest developments in the case of her husband, a Chinese artist who has been sitting in a Beijing prison cell for nearly six months.

Wu Yuren, 39, who led a daring march toward Tiananmen Square earlier this year, is facing trial for a scuffle with police that his supporters say is revenge for his outspoken work.

His Canadian wife is doing everything she can to draw international attention to her husband's plight. She's written to Chinese authorities and to Prime Minister Stephen Harper asking for help to win his freedom.

"It's been very difficult. In fact, in the beginning, I wasn't really sure what to do," Patterson told The Canadian Press in a phone interview from Beijing.

Wu's bizarre ordeal began last May, when he accompanied his friend, Yang Licai, to a police station to file a complaint about his landlord.

Once there, the two men were detained and Yang, who was released 10 days later, told Patterson

"(My daughter is six and doesn't quite understand exactly why she can't see her dad. I've tried to explain it as best would be for a six-year-old. But it's still hard."

KAREN PATTERSON

that her husband had been dragged by four or five police officers, his shirt pulled over his head, into another room from where his painful screams could still be heard.

Wu later told his lawyer he'd been beaten, and showed him several bumps on his head and facial scars.

He was charged with "obstructing public affairs with violence" and is accused of assaulting an officer inside the police station and injuring two of the officer's fingers. If convicted, he could face up to three years in jail.

Patterson believes the detention and the charges are the authorities' payback for her husband's involvement in the artists' rally in February.

THE CANADIAN PRESS

Not quite Calgary

Karen Patterson moved to China from Calgary 16 years ago and said dealing with the Communist country's legal system has not been easy.

"There's a community out there that people don't know about until they get into a human rights issue themselves."

She turned to internationally known artist and activist Ai Weiwei for advice.

"He gave me some suggestions on how to go about working at it instead of just sitting on the side and letting it go the way it might normally go." THE CANADIAN PRESS

Opinion

DJ KELLY

THE SCRUTINEER,
WITH ANALYSIS OF CIVIC ISSUES
IN THE CITY OF CALGARY

Time to end the same ol' budget song and dance. It's budget time at city hall once again. Or more accurately, it's budget adjustment time.

BUDGET DANCE A SAD SONG

Reading the news you can be forgiven for having a sense of déjà vu. "Didn't we just do this last year?" Yes. Yes we did. However administration must figure out how to actually achieve the previously approved budget on an annual basis because of new priorities passed by council since the budget was approved.

While we were all wrapped up in election fever, the city's workers were hard at work finding the places they could cut to make all the math work.

It's the same song year after year. No matter the size or actual impact it's a given the transit union will complain about any cut to transit, the police union will do the same, and advocates of a particular disadvantaged group will decry cuts to that sector as well. Why wouldn't they? It's practically the only input they get.

The 2010 edition of the budget shows an offer of savings via a myriad of efficiency improvements and still allows an increase for police and transit peace officers, better snow removal, two new fire stations, more money for 911 service, and $2 million to the Library.

Mayor Nenshi has been

"Our budget dance has to end. This song is really terrible."

to this dance before however. He knows that simply rubber stamping the 6.7 per cent increase is never a simple as it sounds — nor should it be — so he asked the administration to prepare a second report showing where they might additionally cut to knock that number even lower.

Not only is this politically shrewd — it's always great to say "we cut that to save you from that big scary cut over there" — but it also is just plain useful to know what else could be dumped if we really needed or wanted to.

Ald. Chabot is certainly in favour of deeper cuts, but as he says "I don't think the intestinal fortitude is there to get it below 5.5 per cent."

I tend to agree. But is this really the best system for budget deliberation?

After all bureaucrats are not the best ones to ask to reduce bureaucracy. And are rookie aldermen with all of one month experience really that much more skilled at knowing the impact of a $1.4-million reduction versus $1.5 million than any other person plucked off the street?

This dance may finally be coming to an end. The city is examining ways to offer more meaningful engagement with citizens for the next budget cycle.

Our annual budget dance has to end.

This song really is terrible.

Public can offer opinion on cuts

► City's proposed adjustments were made available to the public at the same time council received the report

Calgarians will be able to have their say when it comes to what gets trimmed from the city budget following the launch of online tools yesterday.

While council will begin making budget decisions in just over 10 days, Mayor Naheed Nenshi said it's important that Calgarians make their voice heard.

"One thing I'm particularly excited about was the willingness of my council colleagues and administration to really engage the public over the next few weeks in this discussion," he said.

"We have launched a website and a number of opportunities online for people to contribute their ideas on these adjustments."

Ald. John Mar said with the possibility of cuts to emergency services on the table, it's important for Calgarians to be involved in the discussion.

"We want to be as open and transparent as we can be," he said.

Nenshi said Calgarians are welcome to attend the Nov. 29 council meeting

- MDs who work 'bankers' hours' rile Canadians, survey reveals
- Evenings, weekends are difficult

Sick of your family doctor working the same hours as bankers?

You're not alone.

The Health Council of Canada researched health-care systems in 11 countries and found that Canadians have the most trouble visiting their doctors after hours.

"Canadians have the greatest difficulty accessing care in the evenings, on weekends, and on holidays — anywhere other than in the emergency department," says the survey.

Canadians are also the biggest users of emergency room services — with 44 per cent of respondents

Survey size

- The survey collected answers from about 20,000 adults in Canada, Australia, France, Germany, the Netherlands, New Zealand, Norway, Sweden, Switzerland, the U.K. and the U.S.
- The Canadian sample size was 3,309 people.

saying they had been to the ER at least once in the past two years.

How does this make Pluto feel?

Scientists have discovered the first planet from another galaxy, sort of.

While some 500 planets have been identified in other parts of our galaxy — the Milky Way — none has been reported in other galaxies.

Now one has been discovered orbiting a star called HIP 13044, located about 2,000 light year away. While this star is now in the Milky Way, researchers report in Thursday's online edition of the journal Science that it originated in a separate galaxy that was later cannibalized by ours.

That makes the new planet, which is about 20 per cent larger than Jupiter, the first found to have originated in another galaxy.

"This discovery is very exciting," Rainer Klement of Germany's Max Planck Institute for Astronomy, said in a statement.

The federal privacy watchdog says the personal information of Canadian airline passengers who fly through U.S. airspace may end up in the hands of American police and immigration officials.

Privacy commissioner Jennifer Stoddart's conclusion is squarely at odds with the view of Public Safety Minister Vic Toews, who insisted this week the U.S. would use the data only for air security purposes.

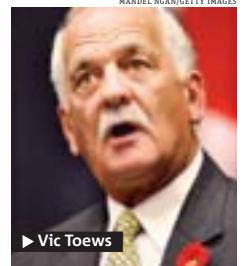

Given her concerns,

Stoddart made several recommendations Thursday to a House of Commons committee studying federal legislation that would allow airlines to share passenger information required by the U.S. Secure Flight program.

Beginning next year, Se-

'Running won't do you any good': Stalker

► 'This case involves a lifetime of terror': Prosecutor
► Shrader dated the woman in high school — in 1975

A West Virginia man's obsession with an ex-girlfriend led him to kill her mother and a friend, and then to stalk her for decades — even after he went to prison, court officials say. Now his obsession has netted him a new prison sentence of nearly 20 years.

Thomas C. Shrader was sentenced Thursday to 19 years and seven months.

U.S. District Judge Irene Berger opted for the maximum under proposed penalties for offenders deemed armed career criminals.

"You've refused to move on. You've refused to let go, causing such difficulties," Berger told the 56-year-old.

"You've pursued this obsession for about 35 years. The sentence is appropriate and necessary."

Separate juries had found Shrader guilty earli-

Prison past

While in prison, Shrader tried to sue the ex-girlfriend, alleging she had promised to marry him. He also escaped from the McDowell County Jail in the late 1970s.

In the 2009 letter, he told the woman he had gone to her house to look for her while on the lam.

He pleaded guilty to escape in 1979, adding a year to his earlier sentence.

er this year of interstate stalking and of being a felon in possession of firearms.

Most recently, Shrader had tracked down the woman and her family in Texas before phoning her, and then last year sending her a 32-page ultimatum that warned, "Running won't do you any good."

The FBI found long guns in Shrader's Mercer County home when he was arrested after sending the letter.

Shrader, who is appealing his convictions, chose not to speak at his sentencing. Assistant U.S. Public Defender Christian Capece argued without success that the armed career criminal penalty should not apply to Shrader. Capece said Shrader has maintained his innocence, and noted the yearlong periods when there was no contact between him and the onetime girlfriend.

The woman, identified in court papers only as D.S., and her husband addressed the court and urged the toughest sentence.

"It's hard to explain the horrific fear that we've been through," the woman said.

Hong Kong officials try to calm bird flu fears

Hong Kong's health secretary says there is no increased risk from imported poultry after the territory confirmed its first case of human bird flu in seven years. York Chow's comments come amid concern that the case involving a woman hospitalized after returning from mainland China threatens public health in Hong Kong.

Chow said Thursday that he had been assured by Chinese government officials that the poultry Hong Kong imports was safe. After Hong Kong's government confirmed the 59-year-old woman's case Wednesday, it raised the bird flu alert to "serious," meaning there is risk of contracting the disease within the territory.

Opposition bashes reform fast track

A bid to fast-track Stephen Harper's Senate reform agenda has been rejected by opposition parties as a cynical ploy by an anti-democratic government.

The Harper government asked for unanimous consent Thursday to accelerate passage of a bill that would limit unelected senators to a single, eight-year term.

The move would have sent the bill directly to the Conservative-controlled upper house, dispensing with any further debate, committee study or votes in the House of Commons. # 'Tis season for deals

► Shoppers can get wireless offers matched or bettered, watchers say

Consumers can expect more deals — and maybe more clout — when shopping for mobile phones during the holiday season in the hotly competitive wireless industry.

The season brings in a big chunk of sales for all the carriers and are especially important to the new players trying to win market share away from Rogers, Telus and Bell.

Telecom analyst Brahm Eiley said it's been a year of discounts in wireless offered by both the new and established players.

Combined voice and data plans from the new players can undercut Rogers, Bell and Telus and their discount brands by more than half. The savings could be up to 75 per cent on data plans, Eiley said.

For consumers, they should be able to shop around and get offers matched or bettered in the Christmas shopping season.

Wind Mobile, Mobilicity and Public Mobile have been "continuously" discounting since they launched, Eiley said from Toronto.

"As long as cash is available to them, they are going to play the low price card. It's the only way for them to get subscribers. This will go on for years."

"It's going to be the most competitive holiday season in wireless in a decade," said Anthony Lacavera, CEO and chairman of Globalive, parent company of Wind Mobile — the first of the new players to enter the market.

"Our competition is really the big guys," Lacavera said.

Wind Mobile launched almost a year ago and new companies Mobilicity and Public Mobile have been up and running since last spring. Quebecor's Videotron launched its wireless service in Quebec this fall.

5 MINUTES WITH: ALIX WOODS

Alix Woods is a Calgarian who writes a blog called the Coffee Filter Bride, where she documents the process of planning her wedding on a budget.

Why did you call your blog the Coffee Filter Bride?

I'm not a professional, I'm just another girl getting married and trying some odd things to get there. Coffee filters were the "main ingredient" in my first craft and I feel like the name speaks to that. I'm not taking myself all that seriously and I don't think you should take me too seriously either.

How did you come up with the idea for the blog?

I knew I wouldn't be able to last 14 months planning a wedding. I would need some busy work to keep myself from spending money on stuff I wouldn't end up using. The blog was a way for me to not drive my fiancé crazy with all my wedding chatter (which he is very thankful for) and keep my wallet closed while I waited.

What's the most useful thing you've learned in researching for your wedding?

The most useful research I've done is certainly talking to other brides — girls who have just gotten married. The most useful thing I've learned from them is to think about being a gr-cious host more than being a bride.

What's been the most challenging part of planning a DIY wedding?

It's hard not to get caught up in things! You get excited, read other people's blogs, get inspired, your imagination gets rolling. And then, all of the sudden, it's been three hours on the Internet and the sun has gone down. I can see why girls go a little nuts. For so many, it's almost a social pinnacle and for even the most level-headed girls you find yourself doing strange things you wouldn't otherwise. On the bride forums, you see girls commenting on posts who have been happily married since 2006. What are they doing on there? It's very easy to get too wrapped up in your wedding.

When's the big day?
Sept. 16, 2011. TGIF wedding!

Do you plan on incorporating coffee filters into your wedding in any way, shape or form?

Absolutely! I am tea dying about 10 million coffee filters to do my centrepieces as well decorative garlands. My mom has picked out a wedding dress for me with ruffles that look like coffee filters and she's dead serious. We'll see. ● METRO

A new family dynamic

Worth mentioning

Is marriage becoming obsolete in the U.S.?

Nearly one in three American children is living with a parent who is divorced, separated or never married. More people are accepting the view that wedding bells aren't needed to have a family.

A study by the Pew Research Center, in association with Time magazine, highlights rapidly changing notions of the American family. And the U.S. Census Bureau, too, is planning to incorporate broader definitions of family when measuring poverty, a shift caused partly by recent jumps in unmarried couples living together.

About 29 per cent of children younger than 18 now live with a parent or parents who are unwed or no longer married, a five-fold increase from 1960, according to the Pew report that was released Thursday. Broken down further, about 15 per cent have parents who are divorced or separated and 14 per cent who were never married. Within those two groups, a sizable chunk — six per cent — have parents who are living in couples who opted to raise kids together without getting married.

Indeed, about 39 per cent of Americans said marriage was becoming obsolete.

Aguilera tackles acting in Burlesque

► Pop star gets starring role in first film ► Excited to take on new challenge ► Found it tough to turn off her character while not filming

 NED EHRBAR
SCENE@METRONEWS.CA
METRO WORLD NEWS IN LOS ANGELES

With a voice that always seems too big to be coming from her small frame, it's no surprise that Christina Aguilera's first foray into film, this month's Burlesque, would be a musical.

"I'm definitely used to coming from a world where I am able to express myself through song, through vocals, through writing lyrics, through poetry and having the time to do so and focus on myself as an artist," Aguilera says.

"I find it much easier to express myself sometimes through song and through vocalizing my emotions. That's why at a young age when I had a very chaotic childhood, I would turn to song as my release out of that environment."

Aguilera insists she relished the challenges of acting for the first time.

"It's a new thing for me, so I really tried to give myself wholeheartedly," she says, though there was at least one unforeseen side effect of taking on the role of Ali, a young performer fresh off the bus from Iowa who works her way up at a Sunset Strip burlesque club.

"I would get very rambunctious," she says of having to put her own personality aside to embody Ali.

"I had a lot of pent-up energy, because I was being neglectful of myself, that when I wasn't being Ali on camera I was really antsy."

While she's made a name for herself belting out tunes, Aguilera admits she's not breaking out into song at any opportunity when she's not at work.

"I'm very reserved when it comes to that," she says. "I know there are certain singers that won't shut up, but I'm very reserved when I'm going about my normal life. But then whenever the stage hits or it's time to perform, it just comes up. And out."

Of course, she's not completely mum around the house. She still saves some of her voice for her young son, Max. "I sing him to sleep every night, and my favourite song to sing him is this little, soft lullaby from Mary Poppins called Stay Awake," she says.

And while she's completely committed to Max, Aguilera says she never considered putting her career on hold. "I think it would send the worst message possible to my child," she says.

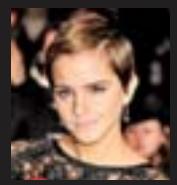

"... I think part of having kids is creating a good balance so that you can then inspire them to be their own individual and find what they're passionate about and what goals they want to achieve in their lives."

► Christina Aguilera stars in Burlesque, which opens next Wednesday.

Scene in brief

Emma Watson may be leaving Hermione Granger behind on the film set, but not in her heart — the two share a similar passion for learning.

Watson, whose character in the Harry Potter movies made it cool to be a studious teacher's pet, says she's "addicted to knowledge" and motivated to keep learning while doing other film projects.

Watson, who has played Hermione for more than half her life, is a sophomore at Brown University in Rhode Island where she is majoring in history.

Movie review

See it twice | See it now | Worth watching | Yawn | Don't bother

Potter gets darker and deeper

Harry Potter And The Deathly Hallows Part 1
Genre: Action/Adventure
Director: David Yates
Stars: Daniel Radcliffe, Emma Watson, Rupert Grint

Though magic is still central to the series, the childlike joy with which the witches and wizards dispatch their powers is almost entirely absent in the latest entry in J.K. Rowling's towering franchise.

Fortunately, that's a good thing, as the first chapter of this epic two part finale is the darkest, strangest, and possibly even the finest Harry Potter movie to date (though be warned that with a downbeat ending peaking the sense of dread before the triumphant battle in Part 2, there's no escape from the darkness for the kiddies in the audience).

The series is now based entirely around an epic battle between good and evil, and anyone who merely dabbled in the early outings might not even recognize the universe.

Don't expect any handholding either as the filmmakers dive into their story midstream with no attempt to bring the audience up to speed. Almost every member of the epic cast makes a brief appearance, but the bulk of the film is spent with Ron,

Hermione and Harry searching for a way to kill Lord Voldemort while struggling with the strain of their quest and maturing sexuality.

How good the film really can only be determined after part 2 is released in July, but for now this surprisingly intense Harry Potter movie suggests the maturing series will end on a high note.

Fair Game
Genre: Drama
Director: Doug Limon
Stars: Sean Penn, Naomi Watts, Sam Shepard

Doug Limon (the man fired from The Bourne Identity series) almost returns to form with Fair Game, a political thriller about Joe and Valerie Plame Wilson. Valerie worked for the CIA before being ousted and ruined by the press after her husband Limon attempts to streamline the ugly truth into a tense ticle in the New York Times deriding the fast-tracked Iraq War. Limon attempts to streamline the ugly truth into a tense thriller and while the pacing definitely works, too much detail has been sacrificed.

The Next Three Days

Genre: Action
Director: Paul Haggis
Stars: Russell Crowe, Elizabeth Banks

If you chopped off the first half of the film, The Next Three Days would've been a relatively decent thriller. Instead, Crash-director Paul Haggis's drawn-out remake about a college professor (Russell Crowe) cooking up an escape plan for his questionably incarcerated wife (Elizabeth Banks) ends up needlessly overburdened. While Crowe's performance is surely intriguing enough, Haggis's version of the 2008 French film Anything for Her doesn't commit to either credibility or just being a decent genre film. Instead, it's the greater morality of this man's efforts that presumably carry audiences for 133 minutes...only it doesn't quite do it.

BEHIND THE CURTAIN AT PRIVATE SCHOOLS

In Focus

RICHARD CROUSE

SCENE@METRONEWS.CA

Hogwarts, a school of magic founded over a thousand years ago by a quartet of the greatest witches and wizards of their age, will once again be front and centre when Harry Potter and the Deathly Hallows: Part 1 opens on Friday. It's the screen's most famous private school, but it isn't the only cinematic bastion of readin', writin' and 'rithmetic.

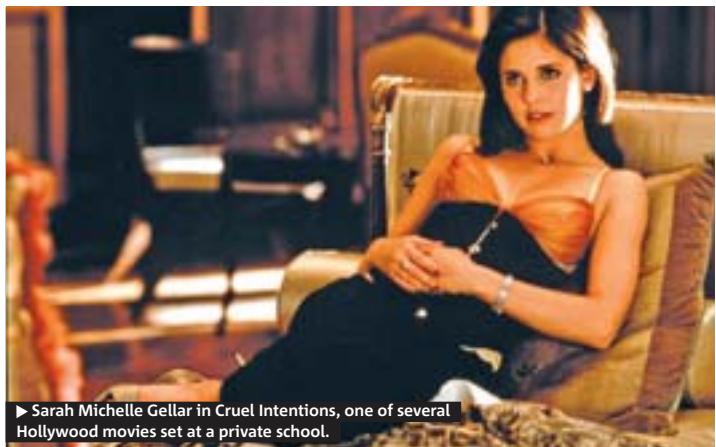

The granddaddy of the modern prep school movie is 1972's A Separate Peace, a dull film, based on a not-so-dull book by John Knowles, starring Parker Stevenson, which was later remade as a better-than-average made-for-TV movie.

Without the original film's portrayal of Devon Academy we might not have Dead Poet's Society (set at "the best prep school in America") or any other classroom drama that teaches life lessons alongside the three R's.

For instance, the all-star students — Brendan Fraser, Ben Affleck, Matt Damon and Chris O'Donnell — in School Ties learn a lesson not on the curriculum: the power of prejudice. Fraser plays David Greene, a Jewish student at a WASPy prep school in the 1950's who becomes the victim of vicious anti-Semitism.

Most noteworthy because of its soon-to-be-famous cast, this came out five years before Good Will Hunting made Affleck and Damon superstars, and a year before Chris O'Donnell was nominated for a Golden Globe for his other prep school drama Scent of a Woman — the movie's message of tolerance resonates when set against today's recent news stories about school bullying.

But don't think all private school movies are about "carpe diem" and uplifting messages. Cruel Intentions sees a group of good looking learners engage in a dangerous game of seduction and betrayal. And the only lesson Chris O'Donnell learns in Scent of a Woman — whose all male boarding school scenes were actually shot at one of the U.S.'s oldest all-female boarding schools — is how to avoid being crushed by the weight of Al Pacino's over acting.

Most vapid, however, is Private School, starring Phoebe Cates and Matthew Modine as star-crossed students from the Cherryvale Academy for Women and the Freemount Academy for Men. Completely devoid of merit, it most famously features gratuitous topless horseback riding and a female shower scene; behaviour Albus Dumbledore would certainly frown on. Critics too frowned upon the movie. One writer said, "hardcore porn has a better reputation" than this teen sex comedy.

TV Picks

Controversial comedy

COMEDY Tonight's instalment of The Ron James Show includes a skit that's billed as a "somewhat controversial."

Entitled Glitler, the piece is set in Hitler's bunker in the last days before the fall of the Third Reich and includes a Glee-like musical component.

Guests in the skit include Colin Mochrie, Patrick McKenna and Art Hindle. (Friday, CBC)

Stand-up laughs

COMEDY Dennis Miller: The Big Speech is the provocative comedian's eighth HBO stand-up special and his first on the network in four years. Dennis Miller Live ran for nine years on HBO before ending in 2002.

The Saturday Night

AMAs set to take stage on Sunday

► Rihanna, Santana and Pink prep unique performances for American Music Awards

The American Music Awards are typically so packed with performances, the actual awards are almost an afterthought.

That's likely to be the case again this year, with at least 16 performances planned for Sunday night's ceremony at the Nokia Theatre.

"Each performance is like a show unto itself," said producer Larry Klein, adding that last year's show boasted a mile-long stack of set pieces.

His team encourages each artist to come up with a unique concept and look for their performance, and almost anything goes.

"We're the only show that gives each individual artist the creativity and the right to collaborate and come up with something great that's specific cally done just for them," he said.

For Pink, that means a stage full of skateboard ramps, skateboarders and aerial artists.

Another performer (Klein wouldn't say who) will appear on an industrial set with moving boxes and elevator lifts.

Carlos Santana, who is performing with Gavin Rossdale, says he doesn't have any special tricks up his sleeve other than to envelop the audience with music and "make the females happy."

"That delicious sensuousness, it's a whole galaxy in itself," he said in an interview. "When Gavin sings Bang a Gong and Santana plays, you set the table... It's very sensuous, and that's one of the main ingredients to make women happy."

Country's 'it' girl nervous

After topping the charts with Revolution, Miranda Lambert is gathering material for a new release

Now that Miranda Lambert has swept the major country music awards for album of the year, she faces a daunting prospect: Topping her chart-topping Revolution.

"I'll probably be panicked the night before my new record comes out because I love Revolution still and I can't even imagine starting on a new record," Lambert said in an interview earlier this month.

"But I know I've got to and I know that I don't need to compare myself to myself."

"I've just got to keep doing what I do and moving forward."

But, yes, I'm so freakin' nervous."

Lambert's last album, released in September 2009, went platinum, spawned two No. 1 hits and helped her win three awards at the CMAs last week.

She also snagged three more at the Academy of Country Music Awards last April.

The good times will continue for Lambert on Dec. 1 when she performs during the hour-long CBS television special during which Grammy nominations are announced.

"It's kind of crazy," she said. "I guess when you have three writers and musicians on a tour together, some music is going to be made somewhere. It's a blast."

And her tour with Eric Church and Josh Kelley continues into the new year.

It's on her tour bus with Church and Kelley, brother of Lady Antebellum's Charles Kelley, where she's slowly been gathering the songs that might be candidates for her next album.

She said the guitar came out the first weekend they were on tour.

So far she's written four songs with Church and three with Church and Kelley.

"We're a lot alike," he said of Lambert. "She's kind of the female version of me.

"We write great songs together. We do a lot of that, as much as we can on the road.

"Hopefully the songs will turn up on each other's records."

Church, whose 2009 al-

HOPING TO BREAK OUT IN M-TOWN

Sound Check

CROSS

SCENE@METRONEWS.CA

At first glance, M for Montreal looks like a local music festival consisting of several days' worth of showcases featuring up-and-coming bands — and it is. At least on the surface.

But it's also part of a global cocktail circuit of similar festivals stretching throughout the rest of Canada, the U.K., Scandinavia, Europe, the Far East, Australia and South America. They may not get the same coverage as mega-events such as Glastonbury, but they form a very important part of the planetary musical ecosystem.

Yes, the general public is welcome to attend, but the real action happens elsewhere. M for Montreal and its kin are scouting and networking platforms and cultural export shows designed to display the music a specific region has to offer the rest of the world. Promoters, bookers, managers, music supervisors, journalists, broadcasters and bloggers are invited from all over to experience the music firsthand, the hope being that deals will be struck, articles will be written, broadcasts will be made and music from these artists will be disseminated to places it might never otherwise reach.

This is my second year at M for Montreal and I've met industry folk from all over the world. For many, their knowledge of Canadian music used to extend about as deep as Arcade Fire. By the time everyone heads home on Sunday, they'll be familiar with a completely new crop of indie talent.

Like who? Well, I have high hopes for PS I Love You, who have an impressive album entitled Meet Me at the Muster Station. Montreal's SUUNS practice a dark form of electro-rock that should have international hipster appeal. Jason Bajada and Leif Vollebekk are both Montreal singer-songwriters who deserve more attention, especially here at home. And I'm most interested in the fortunes of Elephant Stone who conjure images of what the Stone Roses might have been like had they just had a sitar player.

Who knows who might break out this year?

Food in brief

A pretty glass jar of basil, garlic or rosemary packed in oil is a popular hostess gift, but health Canada warns that if the food hasn't been properly prepared, canned, heat-processed, bottled or stored, it can cause serious illness, such as botulism.

Small changes make a big difference

► The Eat This series makes food choices easy ► Advice for eating out or cooking at home

Looks like Americans really do like being told what to eat.

Three years after first telling readers to pick McNuggets over Filet-O-Fish and the low-carb slice over the deep dish pizza, books in the Eat This, Not That! series continue to offer sometimes surprising restaurant and supermarket tips.

The latest entries: the 2011 edition of Eat This, Not That! and a second Cook This, Not That! cookbook offers lower-calorie versions of restaurant favourites like burgers and calzones.

That's 10 books and more than six million copies in a series that still sells like hotcakes (which readers are advised to eat with fruit on top, not sugary supermarket syrup).

The "Eat This" concept is simple and clever.

Compare similar foods — maybe two sandwiches from the same chain, or two canned soups or chocolate bars — and list the calories, fat and salt in each.

The healthier choice is tagged "Eat This" and the one clogged with bad stuff gets a "Not That!"

So, Krispy Kreme customers are told to go for the sugar doughnut over the powdered cake doughnut to save 90 calories, while Reese's Peanut Butter Cups gets the nod over Reese's Fast Break bar for a 50-calorie savings.

"Is it the healthiest food imaginable? No," says series co-author David Zinczenko. "But if you try to tell people to put down the burger and go eat some broccoli, they're never going to make any realistic progress."

Zinczenko, editor-in-chief of Men's Health magazine, instead educates readers so they can make better — or, in some cases, less bad — choices at a given restaurant and at the supermarket.

► Stuffed Dates from Eat This, Not That!

LARRY CROWE/THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Dates, not mushrooms

The folks behind the Eat This, Not That! book series say these indulgent treats are a better choice for a holiday party nibble than the stuffed mushrooms you often encounter. And they are truly delicious.

Start to finish: 30 minutes

Preparation:

3 Spoon about 7 ml (1/2 tbsp) of the blue cheese into the pocket over and around the almond in each date. The dates should be tightly stuffed, but not overflowing with cheese. Place each date at the bottom of a bacon strip half and roll up as tightly as possible. Secure with a toothpick.

1 Heat oven to 220 C (425 F).

2 Using a sharp paring knife, make a slit across the length of each date so that the pocket in the fruit is exposed. Remove the pit inside the date and replace it with an almond.

4 Place dates on a non-stick baking sheet and bake for about 20 minutes or until the bacon has rendered fat and is brown and crispy. Top each with a bit of black pepper and serve.

Ingredients :

- 8 Medjool dates
- 8 almonds
- 50 ml (1/4 cup) crumbled blue cheese
- 4 strips bacon, halved crosswise
- Ground black pepper, to taste

Makes 4 servings.

King Felix gets his Cy Young coronation

For once, Felix Hernandez got all the support he needed for a big win.

The Seattle Mariners ace earned the AL Cy Young Award Thursday despite a modest 13-12 record.

His major league-leading 2.27 ERA and superior stats put him far ahead of Tampa Bay's David Price and the Yankees' CC Sabathia and their impressive win-loss numbers.

Victimized by the Mariners' poor hitting all season, Hernandez found ample backing with the voters in this pitchers' duel. They clearly recognized how little the last-place Mariners helped him — in 10 starts, they were either shut out or held to one run.

"This confirms the Cy Young is an award not only for the pitcher with the most wins, but the most dominant," a teary-eyed Hernandez said while celebrating with relatives at the family home in Valencia, Venezuela.

King Felix got 21 of the 28 first-place votes and 167 points in balloting by the Baseball Writers' Association of America.

The 24-year-old right-hander led the league in innings (249%), was second in strikeouts (232) and held AL opponents to the lowest batting average (.212).

Price, who went 19-6 with a 2.72 ERA, was second with four first-place votes and 111 points. Sabathia, who was 21-7 with a 3.18 ERA, drew the other three first-place votes and finished third at 102.

"Felix is VERY deserving of the award," Price tweeted. "I don't think people understand the numbers he put up outside wins/losses!"

The 13 wins by Hernandez marked the fewest for a Cy Young starter in a full season.

Four teams enter, two teams leave

► Breaking down the East and West division finals ► All signs point to the Stampeders and Alouettes returning to the Grey Cup

WEST DIVISION

Weather will certainly be a factor in Calgary, where it snowed heavily early this week. Sunday's forecast calls for cloudy skies and sunny breaks with a high of -13 C. Wind could also be a factor to consider.

All of which suggests tailbacks Joffrey Reynolds of Calgary and Saskatchewan's Wes Cates could be very important figures following the opening kickoff.

Reynolds finished third in CFL rushing with 1,200 yards, averaging a solid 5.5 yards per carry with eight touchdowns.

Cates was fifth among CFL rushers with 1,054 yards and averaged 5.2 yards per attempt.

ON DEFENCE

Both defences have more to prepare for than hard-running tailbacks, as both Calgary QB Henry Burris and Saskatchewan QB Darian Durant are threats to make big plays with their legs as well as their arms.

Durant, the league's passing leader with 5,542 yards, was also the CFL's top-rushing quarterback with 618 yards at a sparkling average of 7.7 yards per attempt. Burris was second with 491 yards, averaging seven yards per rush.

THE KEY TO WINNING

If there's an edge, it has to be Burris's experience. The 12-year veteran has been here before, knows what it takes to win and has led a team to a championship.

Durant certainly is one of the CFL's top young stars, but there are questions about his consistency.

PREDICTION

Calgary 27
Saskatchewan 24

EAST DIVISION

It didn't take long for the war of words to heat up between these two teams.

Early in the week, Montreal linebacker Diamond Ferri said Argos quarterback Cleo Lemon would be "shark bait" to the Alouettes defence, which would hit him hard and often.

That prompted Toronto tailback Cory Boyd, the most happy-go-lucky player in the league, to say if Ferri or any other Montreal defender wanted to get to Lemon, they'd have to go through him.

But this game will be settled on the field, where the two teams split their regular-season four-game series.

UNDERDOGS

The Argos come in as decided underdogs, which is fine with them.

But to pull off the upset, Toronto's defence and special teams will have to shine, much like they did in the club's 16-13 semifinal win over Hamilton.

Kick-returner supreme Chad Owens, who led the CFL in kick, punt and missed field-goal returns as well as all-purpose yards, must have a big game and give Toronto's offence solid field position. Montreal's offence, anchored by the veteran savvy of Calvillo, doesn't often beat itself. Calvillo rarely throws interceptions at the best of times let alone in a dome under ideal conditions.

KEY PLAYER

Boyd will be a key offensive figure for Toronto. If he has a big game, that will help buy Lemon some time because the Als will have to respect the running game.

PREDICTION

Montreal 30
Toronto 21
